

The National Council of Self Insurers (NCSI) is pleased to announce the inaugural NCSI Self Insurance, OH&S and Injury Management Symposium which is to be held at the Hilton Adelaide, 3 – 5 November 2010.

The Pursuit of Excellence Symposium will address critical issues such as economic resilience, Zero Harm, the interface of OH&S with industrial relations and measuring meaningful outcomes.

About the Symposium

The NCSI understands that new information and continuous improvement are becoming ever more valuable ingredients in business management and are important tools for maximising the benefits of workplace safety and sound injury management. Those who want to judge what is best for their business, understand future implications, be ahead of their competitors and serve their customers will join their peers at The Pursuit of Excellence Symposium.

The NCSI has chosen the theme The Pursuit of Excellence as a symbol of the well recognised principle that excellence in OH&S and returning people to work after injury are essential factors for business success and growth, especially in the self insured sector. The program for the 2010 event is being structured to add maximum value and interest for people with responsibility for OH&S and return to work performance.

The Pursuit of Excellence Symposium will be a cost-effective and interactive symposium of ideas and latest thinking, organised by self insurers for self insurers as well as the broader professional audience. In addition to the diverse range of presenters, the symposium will incorporate worksite tours, a Welcome Reception and Gala Dinner.

This represents excellent value in consideration of the high quality of speakers, the venue and location, and is very competitive with other conferences of a similar nature. In addition, this specially negotiated Member Registration Fee is available to attendees from organisations which are members of a self insurers association. To further assist with making attendance at the symposium economically viable, opportunity exists to save at least $495 when registering 5 or more attendees from the one organisation.
