NATIONAL COUNCIL OF SELF INSURERS CONFERENCE

THE FUTURE OF WORKERS COMPENSATION IN AUSTRALIA

"TIME AND THE WORLD DO NOT STAND STILL.
CHANGE IS THE LAW OF LIFE. AND THOSE WHO LOOK ONLY TO THE PAST OR PRESENT
ARE CERTAIN TO MISS THE FUTURE."

Invitation to attend

For this year's conference the National Council of Self Insurers wanted to bring you the most influential people in our industry and we are pleased to say they have accepted. These speakers know the challenges faced in our industry and are our greatest advocates when it comes to improving the way we operate. They have given us their time to showcase their beliefs on the future of work health and safety, workers' compensation, rehabilitation and employee well-being.

This is your opportunity to help shape and guide the future of your industry.

Our panel sessions have been designed to bring together the heads of our jurisdictions so they can discuss the best elements of their systems and give us some insight into their future direction. This will be your opportunity to have questions raised and discussed with a multi jurisdictional focus that captures the attention of the full room.

The focus of National Council is always to deliver a great agenda at the best price, and we believe this year will be no exception with some great speakers, great entertainment and a great location.

Excellence in OH&S and returning people to work after injury are essential factors for business success and growth, especially in the self insured sector. The program for the 2012 event is being structured to add maximum value and interest for people with responsibility for workers' compensation, work health and safety, and return to work performance.

Why you should attend

The NCSI considers that some of the compelling reasons that people will attend the conference are:

- various conference sessions offering inside expertise
- matching their information and learning needs and helping them tackle everyday challenges
- gaining perspective through keynote addresses on the state of the industry as well as emerging trends
- extending their professional and personal knowledge
- sharing information and profiting from networking
- access to valuable new business leads
- discovering and evaluating products and services
- being part of what is becoming one of the most recognised events of its kind
- getting the scoop on the latest ideas
- taking advantage of being in the same place with the best and brightest of their professions
- meeting some of the best known professionals in person and exchanging experiences
- bringing together of industry experts to share knowledge, skills, new ideas and solutions.

Who should attend?

The NCSI anticipates that a wide range of professions and positions from both the public and private sector will be represented at The Future of Workers Compensation in Australia Conference including senior OH&S managers and practitioners, consultants, case managers, rehabilitation consultants, injury managers, claims managers, HR managers and company directors.

These people will come from a wide variety of industries such as local government, state and commonwealth public sectors, insurance, law, mining, defence and manufacturing as they are drawn to the common goal of maximising potential and productivity and promoting safety and wellness at work.
